

AAC Publications

Prusik Peak, South Face, Der Milkman

Washington, Stuart Range

In late July, Gaelen Engler and I climbed a probable new route up Prusik Peak's south face, finding crack systems that led to the top. Our route started far right of other recorded routes, and we were pleasantly surprised by the quality of the climbing. Most of the cracks had a fair to significant amount of lichen in them, and we saw no obvious signs of previous passage. We finished on the final short pitch of the Beckey-Davis Route to the summit. We called it Der Milkman (650', 5.9). It could be a near classic with some cleaning.

– Matt Hartman

Images

Nice-looking granite on Der Milkman, Prusik Peak.

Right side of the south face of Prusik Peak, the area taken by the new route Der Milkman.

PRUSIK PEAK Central East Cascades, WA

Der Milkman climbs the previously untraveled area far to the right of the Beckey-Davis Route on the south side of Prusik Peak.

Article Details

Author	Matt Hartman
Publication	AAJ
Volume	58
Issue	90
Page	94
Copyright Date	2016
Article Type	Climbs and expeditions