

AAC Publications

Brabant Island, Peaks Southeast of Mt. Parry

Antarctica, Antarctic Peninsula

In December, a ski mountaineering party led by Bruce Goodlad (U.K.) was dropped off at Tarrada Point on Brabant Island. They skied up to a base camp in front of Mt. Parry (2,520m). The following day, with 50-knot winds over the summits, they skied a 1,983m peak to the south of Parry, at 64°16'59"S, 62°24'42.8"W. On the 3rd they skied an attractive mountain southeast of Parry (ca 1,000m, 64°20'19.4"S, 62°21'11.9"W), which had a beautiful summit snow crest. It is not clear whether these two peaks had been ascended before—the only party that could have done so would have been the 1984-85 British Joint Services Expedition, which skied past this group.

– Lindsay Griffin, with information from Damien Gildea, Australia

Images

Mt. Parry (2,520m, right) from the southeast. The 2016 expedition skied the bowl to the left and then ascended the first rounded dome to the left: Peak 1,983m

The attractive ca 1,000m peak southeast of Mt. Parry, climbed on skis from the far side in 2016 via the left skyline ridge.

Article Details

Author	Lindsay Griffin
Publication	AAJ
Volume	59
Issue	91
Page	232
Copyright Date	2017
Article Type	Climbs and expeditions